BOARD OF EDUCATIONPlainfield, N. J.

June 27, 1933

Board of Education,
Plainfield, N. J.

Gentlemen:

Enrollment and Housing

The average enrollment for the year was 6898, an increase of 90. High School enrollment increased 183 from 1491 to 1674, while the elementary enrollment decreased 93 from 5317 to 5224.

The physical facilities of the High School building are being used to the fullest extent and although conditions have not been ideal, no undue inconvenience has been experienced. An anticipated increase of 150 next year will tax the capacity of the building further. I hope that the planned building program of the Board may proceed before space limitations restrict the educational policies of the system. I wish to repeat the statement made in previous reports that the cost of the program completed to date has been moderate measured by the total amount of school bonds outstanding, the ratio of the bonds to the assessed values of the community, and the per cubic foot cost of buildings constructed. This fact is demonstrated by comparison with costs in other districts in the State.

Since the completion of the High School addition, $238,000 in bonds have matured, and the annual cost of interest and maturities has decreased $9,352.50. I think that an estimate of construction costs for the next six to eight years will not bring the bonded indebtedness again to the peak reached in 1931. The only elementary building in any degree crowded, is the Maxson School, where two classes have been using one room on a part time basis. Next year will not add to the number on half sessions.

For the past three years capital expenditures for equipment have been stopped, repairs to buildings and equipment have been cut 50 per cent. Although such curtailment was entirely possible when buildings and equipment were in a good state of repair, the wear and tear of the elements and 7000 pupils will obviously necessitate greater future expenditures if sensible economic policies of protecting valuable investments is to prevail.

Local Tax for Schools

Since the amount raised locally by taxation for school purposes is the largest single budget item for one agency, it necessarily attracts attention in the aggregate. The school rate reached its peak in 1925 when it was 1.24 and with a total tax rate of 3.63. In the succeeding four years of inflated prosperity with general increases in tax rates for all other purposes, the school rate of 1.24 was more than ample to provide for a continued growth in the system, largely in the most expensive branch, the high school, and showed a progressive decrease to 1.15 in 1929, the last year of the era. This was made possible chiefly because salary maxima were not increased after 1924.

In 1925, the total city tax rate was 3.63 and in 1929, 4.03, an increase of 40 points, while the school rate dropped from 1.24 to 1.15 or 9 points. The total rate increased 11%, the school rate decreased 7%.

Since 1929, retrenchment of government costs has reflected in the rates. An indication of the school system's contribution is made evident by a study of tax bills since then. From 1929 to 1933, the total rate dropped from 4.03 to 3.34 or 17%, the school rate from 1.15 to .86 or 25%. Since the rate for schools was kept in control in the 1925-29 period by an actual rate decrease, a comparison of a longer term of management may be of interest. The 1925 total rate was 3.63 compared to 1933 rate of 3.34, a decrease of 29 points or 8%; the school rate from 1.24 to .86, 38 points or 30%.

The rates for 1925, 1929, 1932 and 1933 are given below:

	1925	1929	1932	1933
Total Rate	3.63	4.03	3.73	3.34
Per Cent	100%	111%	103%	92%
Local School	1.24	1.15	1.09	.86
Per Cent	100%	93%	88%	69%

Costs

On account of the disturbed economic conditions of the last two years, the school budgets have been reduced to conform with the necessity for tax reduction. The amount raised by local taxation has been decreased from $752,750 in 1931-32 to $543,032 for 1933-34, a difference of $209,718 or 27.8%. In a three-year period there is an estimated increase in enrollment of 547 or 8.3%. The added number of pupils will be absorbed with the increase of but five in the teaching force. This means, of course, that the teaching loads of a number of teachers have been considerably increased and by so doing have contributed to the economy program. Most of the increase is in the High School, where during the current year one teaching period was added to effect flexibility of plant and program making.

The chief item of budget reduction has been in salary contributions of teachers and other employees. Employees have contributed 31½% of their salaries to the Board of Education for nine months of this year, and teachers and administrative workers have in general donated $3\frac{1}{2}\%$ of their salaries to the Children's Relief Committee. The total amount of salary contributions for the two years, this and next, are \$21,986 and \$86,572, respectively. The \$21,986 is carried over as a balance in reduction of 1933 taxes. The \$86,572 will be derived from salary contributions of $11\frac{1}{2}\%$ of all Board of Education employees receiving over \$500. In addition, $3\frac{1}{2}\%$ will be contributed to the Children's Relief Committee by each employee, or a total salary contribution of 15%.

A comparison of 1931-1932 and 1933-34 payrolls of all employees of the system reveals a drop from $790,301 to $642,742 after contributions. This amounts to 18.6% which does not reconcile with the 15% salary contributions noted above. It is accounted for by replacement of some employees, retired or resigned, at lower salaries.

The salary total for the teaching force reflects an even more favorable comparison. In the two-year period, it has been lowered from $705,189 to $570,291 or 19.1%.

Reductions, some of them arbitrary, have been effected in such controllable items as repairs and replacements, supplies, textbooks, etc., in the amount of $35,844. After budget adoption, close control of expenditures permitted accumulation of some surplus even under reduced appropriation and increased number of pupils.

In summary, a two-year reduction in cost in local taxes of 27.8% has been brought about by 15% salary contributions of employees, the replacement of teachers at lower salaries, and reduced appropriations for materials of instruction and for repairs of plant and equipment.

Record should be made of some items of anticipated income for 1933-34 which are either non-recurring or doubtful. Salary contributions of $21,986 for 1932-33 were used as surplus in reducing taxes for 1933-34. Railroad tax money received from the State in 1932-33 should have been $21,153. Litigation by the railroads has held up payment of $16,599.75 of the amount and there is a possibility that the total anticipated for 1933-34 may not be paid. These two amounts aggregate $37,752.75, which, if unpaid, must be supplied from other sources to balance the 1933-34 budget.

In Memoriam

The year has been saddened by the sudden and unexpected deaths of two of our teachers and one janitor. Miss Marjorie Gernert taught in the Hubbard School and Miss Bessie Sarson in the Emerson. Miss Gernert has served as a teacher for five years and Miss Sarson for twelve years. Their sudden passing was as a shock to their pupils and friends who have felt their loss deeply. They had endeared themselves to all their associates.

Charles Sutterlin, janitor of the Lincoln School for eleven years, died unexpectedly during the year. As a faithful servant and a friendly personality, he has been missed by the pupils and teachers.

Retirements

Miss Mayme Breads retired at the end of the year after 28 years of service as a teacher in the elementary grades and as vice-principal of the Hubbard School. Miss Mary Marsh retired as first grade teacher in the Lincoln School and Miss Clara Churton, fourth grade teacher and vice-principal of the Evergreen School. Miss Marsh served 28 years in Plainfield and Miss Churton 37 years. Miss Dorothea Bull, who has taught 31 years in our system, the last 20 of which were in the Commercial Department of the High School, was compelled to apply for disability retirement on account of ill health. It is pleasant to record the esteem in which these successful teachers were held by their professional associates and friends. A large part of their lives was spent in unstinted service to the children of Plainfield. Professional growth and youthful spirit continued with each of them to the end of her service.

I wish to record my high appreciation of their devotion and service and my regret that they are no longer with us.

Education for the Dull Normal Pupils

The greatest challenge to our teaching is education and training of the large group of pupils which are characterized by the terms "dull" or "dull normal." These terms have developed in educational definition by a comparison with that type of mind which has been traditionally successful in meeting with fair ease the purely intellectual standards of high school or college. They constitute a large group which, measured either by standard tests or by the judgment of instructors, will fail to achieve real success in academic work. Whatever opinion one may have concerning the problem of their education and training, the fact remains that these children ultimately make up a majority of our adult population. In the change of social trends of the last few years, the size of the group has greatly increased at the high school level with corresponding emphasis of the problem. These boys and girls with no volition of their own are compelled to spend several years of their lives in school, where they are subjected to defeat and failure. Repeated failures produce patterns of discouragement and non-success which become fixed in thwarted personalities. Surely, this is no solution of the problem. In an educational system that has become so democratic in the secondary level, justice demands that it recognize its duty to this large majority group no less than to the bright.

In our system, progress has been made in recognizing this condition and in attempting to improve it. The courses of study have been diversified to fit a greater variety of individual ability. Educational guidance has directed larger numbers into those courses in which there is possibility for success. Diversification of content has been made in core subjects to fit the interests and ability of varied groups.

Although our desires to solve the problem have met with some success, it still needs our best thought.

Spirit and Morale

In such a totally human organization as a public school system, the moral and spiritual influence of the teaching force is paramount at all times. The training of the character of the children is a reflection of the philosophies and intentions of the teacher.

The past year has been historic in economic history. Destructive forces of deflation affecting all types of industrial and financial endeavor have added to the normal poverty of the community until nearly one-seventh of the total population was compelled to look to relief agencies for bare sustenance. Of the remainder, a majority has felt the effects of reduced income. A feeling of insecurity and uncertainty has been widespread. Under such conditions it could be expected that a considerable unbalance of normal home atmosphere would result. Principals and teachers have reported many instances of it. I am pleased to record that principals, teachers and other workers or agencies connected with the system recognized the conditions of the time and consciously accepted them as an added challenge for human service.

There has been a general attempt by teachers to be even more sympathetic than before with their pupils. The spirit of the classroom has been improved to offset unhappiness outside it.

Needs of food and clothing have been detected and provided. The Children's Relief Committee has continued its cooperation with the schools and has been helpful in coordinating the efforts of all for more effective relief service.

Early in the year it was evident that the number of children to receive lunches would be greatly increased over the number of the two previous years. An estimated budget of the number to be fed and the cost of materials and operation for the year was prepared. A survey disclosed that 1000 children should be fed and that the cost would require what amounted to a 31½% salary contribution of the teaching force. With no hesitancy, the Teachers' Club voted to make the necessary contributions with the result that the lunches were started early in the school year. One balanced meal a day has been given to approximately 1000 children at a total cost of $13,500 in round figures. Seventeen paid workers were employed through the Emergency Relief Committee and removed from its list. As a sidelight, it is of interest that the funds paid to the workers sustained not only themselves, but in addition 56 dependents or a total of 73 persons.

Mrs. Frederic W. Goddard has continued as chairman of the committee and Miss Esther Barlow as secretary. Mr. George B. Zimmer, Clerk of the Board of Education, became purchasing agent at the beginning of the year, and Mrs. Florence Newcomb, secretary in the superintendent's office, was elected treasurer. With the above, the other members of the committee, volunteer workers from parent-teacher associations, and principals and teachers, have assisted in making a rather difficult and sizeable project function smoothly and at minimum cost. Serving lunches was stopped June 3, 1933. From the balance of funds one pint of milk per child per day will be supplied to 300 children until the opening of school in September.

Parent-teacher associations have made contributions to the needy of their schools. Large numbers of articles of clothing and footwear were collected and either given out directly or turned over to the Clothing Committee of the Emergency Relief which cooperated in keeping children clothed so that they might not be absent from school.
